ALTAGETHER EVENT PLAN

Bring-Your-Own Blanket Picnic

EFFORT: ●●○ COST: ●○○ VIBES: ●●●

Tell everyone to grab a blanket and something to eat, pick a patch of grass, and show up. That's basically it. It's one of those events that sounds too simple to work and then turns out to be exactly what people needed.

HOW TO PLAN:

1 week out — Pick a date, time, and location. A nearby park or an open lot works great. Confirm it's accessible.

Day of — Bring a small speaker for music, sunscreen to share, and a couple of trash bags. Everything else is on neighbors to bring. That's the point.

After — Snap a photo if you can. Note who came, follow up on anything that surfaced.

WHAT YOU'LL NEED:

- [ ] Small bluetooth speaker
- [ ] Sunscreen (to share)
- [ ] Trash bags
- [ ] Optional: a few extra blankets for folks who forget

TIPS:

- ✔ Altagether will reimburse for supplies! Save receipts and submit a request.
- ✔ "Bring Your Own" framing takes pressure off you and gives neighbors something to contribute. People like having a role.
- ✔ Suggested parks: Loma Alta, La Pintoresca, McDonald
- ✔ Pick a spot with shade if you can.

SAMPLE INVITATIONS:

LONG VERSION

Hi neighbors! We're getting together for a simple afternoon picnic and would love to see you there.

Bring a blanket, something to eat or drink, and come spend some time with your neighbors. There's no formal agenda — just a chance to catch up, meet some people you may not know yet, let the kids play, and enjoy being together.

[Day, Date] from [Time range]
[Park/Location]

Bring your family, a friend, or just yourself. All ages are welcome, and feel free to come and go whenever works for you.

Hope to see you there!

SHORT VERSION

Hey neighbors! Let's enjoy the afternoon together — BYO Blanket Picnic this Friday at [time] at [park/location]. Bring snacks and a drink. We'll gather informally and let the kids play. All ages welcome!

[Address]